3 JOY IN BERLIN

BERLIN (AP)-The flow of West Berliners through the Ber-lin wall rose today. So did the Communist effort to turn the Yuletide relaxation on border crossings to political advantage.

"Welcome to democratic Ber-lin," said East German border guards as West Berliners held out their one-day passes.

At the Friedrichstrasse stavisitors arriving by elevated tains were met by similar greetings blared from loudspeakers.

While the Nation Waits

IVI could not have urged the case for his tax reduction and civil rights bills more plainly and forcefully than did President Johnson in a recent talk to the AFL-CIO executive committee.

"the number one priority tomorrow is more jobs" and described the tax cut bill now being held up in Congress as "the most massive single attack we can make on this problem."

The reasoning is that a reduction of taxes on incomes would encourage expansion of industry as well individual buying, and these would contribute to an increased demand for labor. This was one of Mr. Kennedy's most urgent measures, yet, as Mr. Johnson says, "It has lain un-enacted when it ought to be allve and working." He sees the legislation as creating an additional $11 billions of Gross National

Of no less urgency for the Johnson administration is the civil rights bill, as it was for Mr. Kennedy. This, too, is suffering in Congress what Mr. Johnson calls "the endless abrasions of delay, neglect and in-difference" and he sees that the whole program of civil rights has come too late and fears it will be

The President called on organized labor to support and press for

MR. KENNEDY HIMSELF delays in Congress are reflected in many other quarters today. Some of the hold-up in the Senate and the House of Representatives has been on economic or moral grounds. But most of it has been merely a ploy the game of politics, with calcu-Mr. Johnson pointed out that lating eyes on the southern and northern votes.

The legislation is too vital for such treatment in Mr. Johnson's opinion. Many of his countrymen share his view, and governmental experts, quite apart from the merits of the legislation itself, are becomincreasingly concerned about this flaw in the legislative process.

There is mounting criticism of a system which elects a president and then prevents him from governing, which becomes deadlocked in political manoeuvring, which can be ham-strung by the individual efforts of a key committee chairman or a logrolling minority group.

The major questions of the day are too fast-moving, too important and too wide in their proliferating effects to permit wasteful delay in finding answers. It is one thing to build checks and restraints into a legislative system. It is another to provide it with vetoes through inaction.

As the effects of current inaction become more evident to the Ameri-can people, there may well be a reaction against the inadequacies of the Congressional process, and the deliberately restricted outlook of enactment of these measures, as deliberately restricted outlook of well as for the United States medithose who were elected to govern care plan. His concern for the long the country as a whole.

Too Many Disturbing Questions

THERE IS EVIDENCE OF ADministrative fumbling by Ottawa in the case of John Wasylenchuk, the Vancouver man who was extradited to Seattle to face a charge of complicity in a bank robbery and murder which occurred in that city

Justice Minister Chevrier's reply to questions asked in the Commons certainly indicate that neither he nor the officials under him were aware of the legal question involved at the time Mr. Chevrier signed the extradition order. The question is whether a man on parole—as Mr. Wasylenchuk is—is considered to be still under sentence by a Canadian court and therefore not extraditable. Mr. Chevrier says his legal experts have assured him that the Canada Parole Act does not apply in this

If this opinion is correct—it has never, apparently, been tested in court—then there was no reason to delay the extradition.

What is bothering many people, including the Members of Parliament who have been raising a row cials following the signing of the order indicate that they did have some doubts as to the application of the Parole Act. If they had no doubts, why was a last-minute at-tempt made to have execution of order by American officials

There are other facets of this case which, although they may not affect the legality or otherwise of Mr. Wasylenchuk's extradition, are bound to bother Canadians who have been following it with some

There is the fact that a retired Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant testified that he had seen accused on the day of the robbery-murder. His testimony was that within an hour of the time the crimes took place Mr. Wasylenchuk was 150 miles away.

There is the unseemly haste with which Federal Bureau of Investigation agents executed the extradition order and whisked the accused across the border, as though they were afraid that a legal barrier could, or would, be raised under Canadian law.

There is finally the publicity which the case has received in the area where the trial will take place: incidents such as the Chief of Police of Seattle appearing on television and announcing trium phantly, "We've got the guilty man this time," even though no court has yet found him guilty.

The extradition itself is a fait with Mr. Chevrier, is that the The extradition itself is a fait actions of Justice Department offi- accompli. But Canadians will be watching the trial of Mr. Wasylen-chuk with considerable interest and a certain amount of anxiety concerning the evidence—particularly the testimony of the retired RCMP sergeant who placed Mr. Wasylen-chuk at such a distance from the crime that it would have been impossible for him to have been involved.

the fertilizer program has a lot of very ragged edges. As the specialists now see the facts, it seems most probable that Khrushch hopes to get a large share of the needed recurees by putting up a semi-stop on new capital investment in the steel and other heavy industries. These have always been the favorites, until now, of the Soviet economic planners. Downgrading them is

But the Soviet pressure for Westtern credits is still going to be a major problem for President Johnson, perhaps equiring bold action.

Finally, the biggest question of all is actly what Khrushchev meant, in his last speech at the recent meeting, when he said that the effort to bolster Soviet agriculture would also be accompanied by 'some reductions" in the manpower of the armed forces.

Here again, the specialists are only guessing, as yet. But the guesses, based on much information and long practice, are interesting enough to be worth recordexcluded that the present, highly conservative Minister of Defence, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, will be replaced by the more modern-minded Chief of Staff, Marshal S. S. Biryuzov, at the forthcoming session of the Supreme Soviet. If this happens, Biryuzov will then be charged with gen-eral modernization of the Soviet defence design, including shrinking the army's swollen manpower.

In weaponry, the deployment of additional Soviet intercontinental ballistic mis-siles, which began last winter, will almost certainly continue as before; and so will the expensive hardening of the ICBM sites, But the fertilizer decision makes it more unlikely than ever that the early model of the Soviet anti-missile missile will be deployed in large numbers; and the same holds true for the low-level anti-aircraft missile, the SAM-3.

The armed forces will like none of this, and great strains will surely result. Comparable strains will also result from giving second priority to general economic growth. All the unanswered questions mean, in sum, that this is only the beginning of a major drama, and a drama, moreover, with the utmost political as well as economic meaning.

never hear ascribed to a Parliament; a remark that "That was a successful Par-liament," or "That was a successful session."

Lots of other adjectives are used: long, windy, do-nothing, tiresome, fruitless, quarrelsome and, at the other end of the scale, busy, fruitful, businesslike, profitable. But Maybe it's because success is something that cannot be judged immediately: too much of the proof of Parliament's pudding is in the eating. For example, the MPs raised their pay and allowances from $10,000 to $18,000 a year; did that contribute to Parliament's success? Only if he attracts abler prays to seek success? Only if it attracts abler men to seek election to the Commons. And similarly with acts that increased the salaries of judges and administrative officials.

There was a great swatch of legislation to implement the budget proposals, and all of it must be treated in practice to determine its success. Certain tax loopholes were ostensibly plugged by legislative crackdown on dividend stripping, company splitting and expense account living, but this is only an other engagement in an unending war.

More important is the economic effect of the three year tax holiday granted new industry that establishes itself in distressed areas, added tax deductions for oil and gas exploration costs, tax penalties on non-resident corporations, and tax incentives for foreign-owned Canadian companies to sell stock to Canadians. The stick and carrot treatment for foreign capital carries an ele-ment of risk: it could make the critter balky and slow down foreign investment here. So the success of these moves is very much a question mark.

Similarly with other moves to spur, in-fluence or manage the economy: the $100

Fund, the program to lend federal money to municipalities to finance capital works and create jobs, and establishment of a depart-ment of industry and an economic council of Canada.

What else did Parliament do? Well, it restored peace on the Great Lakes by bring-ing the SIU and other maritime unions under government trusteeship. It disposed of a hoary anachronism, the cluttering of Parliament's machinery with bills of divorce for persons living in Quebec and Newfoundland by empowering the Senate to dissolve and annul marriages by simple resolution, without reference to the Commons.

It increased old age and similar social payments by $10 a month. It increased federal contributions to the costs of provincial vocational training programs. It passed an act to establish a representation commissioner—the first step in getting away from the democratically unfair system of deciding questions of parliamentary representation on partisan polical grounds.

Then it took the National Centennial Administration and turned it into Centennial of Canadian Confederation Commission. What price semantics, the government said, if they'll make Quebec happy—and Parliament grumblingly concurred.

A successful session? Maybe. Fruitful and profitable? To a degree, but a degree that could have been greater if the government hadn't had to trim its program by postponing legislative action on the Canada Pension Plan, the Canada Development Corp. and other important proposals. But unfortunately Parliament is not a sailboat: with Parliament the more wind the less progress, and it's been a windy fall.

Dear Mrs. Hillin: "Thou shalt love they neigh-bor as thyself." This simple precept in Leviticus sums up take the saying literally, it of loving-kindness—in the works seems to mean that we should of love.

But what does the word gard and self-care as a model for our attitude towards others—that we should look upon the life and welfare of another self-life anoth as if it were our own. Then the commandment becomes, "Love our neighbor as if he were ourself."

Certainly empathy and sym-athy with the other person is mplied: putting yourself in his place and understand how ne feels. The reason for this

Love, then, is something more the essential moral message of biblical faith according to Jesus of Nazareth and the Talmudic sages. ## Pet Coons in Constant Trouble

Not long ago a raccoon came down out of one of my trees, in Oak Bay, and sauntered off down the driveway. Are there many raccoons in the city? What is their natural habitat? Can they survive long in a densely populated area? What are the game regulations on these ani-

Raccoons are definitely present within the limits of Greater Victoria but they are not numerous. If they were more common one would see them more often crossing roads at night or visiting back-Yet, they are widely spread. Not many years ago one was found in the grounds of the Empress Hotel and they have been reported present in Bea-con Hill Park, in Government House gardens, and in various residen-tial sections of Oak Bay.

Several families of raccoons are resident in parts of the Hudson's Bay Woods and other treed areas such as on Ten Mile Point. Householders living adjacent to these woodlands sometimes find that local raccoons become a nuisance. On nightly visits they upset gar-bage cans and scatter the contents, wade through garden pools, uprooting lilies and catching goldfish, or raid fruit trees.

Some cause more serious damage when they get into chicken runs and slaughter the Normal habitat of raccoons is the wooded margins of streams, rivers and lakes and also the seashore. Trees provide shelter in the form of hollowed interiors or holes beneath roots and the waterways variety of edibles.

Almost everything is eaten: fish, freshwater mussels, aquatic snails, crayfish, all types of grubs and adult insects, frogs, snakes, eggs and young birds, nuts and fruit in general. Along the seashore crabs form an important item.

The raccoon is extremely versatile in its choice of food and is also able to adapt itself fairly well to changing living conditions. is not surprising, then, to find it living with-in residential areas where it can prowl backyards and garbage pits.

How long it can survive in a densely populated area is not known. One could guess by saying raccoons will persist in such places so long as food and shelter are avail-able and so long as they are not hunted down and destroyed.

In the last decade raccoons have increased greatly in numbers throughout their range in British Columbia and in some areas they we become a nuisance.

At the same time the value of their fur

Special service bulletin for Mutual Life policyholders

You can save on your 1963 Income Tax while you save money

Any Mutual Life insurance policy, except term, may qualify for registration under the Income Tax Act. Subject to certain limits in the Act, the savings portion of the premium can then be deducted from your taxable income each year.

Several thousand Mutual Life policyholders, including engineers, doctors, accountants, lawyers, dentists, and the owners of small business firms, have already registered Mutual Life policies under the Act. If you are self-employed, you will find this arrangement particularly attractive in planning for your retirement income. If you are now contributing to your employer's pension plan you may qualify for further tax relief,

You have until February 29, 1964, to register a policy and claim this deduction on your 1963 income tax return.

Either a new policy, or a Mutual Life policy you already own, may be registered. Your representative will be pleased to discuss this service with) you. Call him today, or mail the coupon below for further information

Manslaughter Hearing Opens

DUNCAN—A preliminary hearing into the manslaughter charge against Dennis R. Cline, 17, of Duncan, opened before Magistrate D. K. McAdam in police court Friday.

The charge arose from the Aug. 8 death of Hugh Neeblyt, 14, on Maple Ray Pard

Nesbitt, 14, on Maple Bay Road. Cline is being defended by Joseph McKenna, QC, of Victoria, and Thomas Lines of Duncan. David Williams of Duncan, is Crown prosecutor. The charge was laid as a result of an incident which took place on Maple Eay Road.

Chamber Against Dredging

The case continued today.

CAMPBELL RIVER-The Chamber of Commerce here is backing sport fishermen to prevent the dredging of Campbell River.

It passed a motion declaring itself "unalterably opposed to any proposition for dredging."

The dredging has been proposed to provide a barge harbor and industrial site just below Campbell River bridge. It was pointed out at the meeting that Campbell River has for more than 60 years supported world famous sport fishing as well as significant commercial salmon runs in less than three miles of spawning water.

The meeting felt that any further tampering with the river would produce undesirable, if not disastrous effects. Roderick Haig-Brown, past president of the chamber, proposed the motion which was carried with only minor opposition.

Fuller's Lake Well Stocked

NORTH COWICHAN-A total of 32,000 fish were planted in Fuller's Lake at Chemainus by the department of recreation and conservation, Gerry Smith informed North Cowichan council Thursday.

The department will continue to restock the lake at no cost to the municipality, he said. A petition from Crofton pulp mill workers requesting the painting of a white centre line on Osborne Bay Road, endorsed by council. It also approved a request from Coun, Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn for directional signs leading visitors to King's Daughters' Hospital. Council agreed to pay $12 to A. A. Moffatt of Maple Road, for loss of an ewe valued at $18. The ewe was killed by marauding dogs.

Hector Stone of Gibbins Road, will receive $6.50 for a goose killed by dogs.

Job Training Plan Launched

VANCOUVER (CP)-An agreement launching a controversial job training program has been signed by the Inter-national Woodworkers of America (CLC) and coast employer representatives, it was announced Friday.

Jack Moore, western region president of the IWA, said the agreement has been signed with Forest Industrial Relations and the program will start operations as soon as

The program is designed to train prospective millwrights and to upgrade present millwrights. The training is voluntary but millwrights who participate and pass an examination will receive an additional 10 cents an hour.

Last week Syd Thompson, president of the IWA's 7,000-member Vancouver local, denounced the program as being unfair to longtime journeymen millwrights who did not take the examination. In some cases it would imperil their jobs. Mr. Thompson called for the ouster of regional officers who supported it.

The IWA's Duncan local also criticized the plan.

Soundings Made for Bridge

NANAIMO-Seismic sounding operations were carried this week along the route of the proposed bridge to Newcastle Island, a provincial park.

The soundings were taken by materials testing divisions of the department of highways.

It is the second step in preparing plans for a bridge to Early last summer an engineering survey was conducted to determine the most practical site for the bridge and the Brechin Point area was selected.

While steps are being taken to plan the bridge, there is no indication yet that the department plans an early start on the project which is being sought by the city.

A bridge would permit full use of park facilities.

Every day can be a day of Every d

Every day can be a day of giving. I have often wondered whether we, as gardeners, are whether we, as gardeners, are whether we, as gardeners, are pleasures we receive from meeting and knowing other gardeners. This thought is vividly brought to mind as cards and letters arrive from gardening friends both near and far, for there is a common bond among those who work the soil, regardless of title, position, language or creeds.

Gardeners are simple-minded souls filled with wonder and linstall and sing their sweetest songs. You will feel the warmth of the sun, seem larger than the actual size. ## Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

People who skate from a horizontal position have always been close to this heart. I have not skated often but often when I skated I was flat out. And wet-bottomed.

For years the thought that anybody could fall on fce and get paid for it was beyond comprehension. One fall is usually enough to take the ginger snaps out of a skater and two falls is a real convincer.

For 23 years with Ice Capades and seven years as a free-lancing individualist, Eric Walte has been landing on his head and southern posterior, courting disaster without actually shaking hands with it.

His basic task with Ice Capades is to provide comedy relief from the "straight skaters," the guys and dolls who pirouette and float and leap about in tight pants and without baggy sweaters, either.

baggy sweaters, either.

On Thursday night at Memorial Arena while he was playing the role of a stunned Cleopatra, Eric stepped on something—"maybe a penny or a bobby-pin . . . they think it's funny to throw them on the ice"—and went on

Antic Too Risky To Be Deliberate

The toddler set laughed at the oaf on his bottom but en Waite caromed off a bank of lights most adults checked their mirth. Free falls in the middle of ice are one thing; bouncing into lights is too risky to be deliberate.

Waite wore the mementos of his misfortune Friday. His left side, hip and elbow he would have sold for 29c. What bothered him more was the effect the fall had on "Knocked my continuity for a loop," he said. "That was the SECOND thing that went wrong with the act.

"You remember how I came out as one of three murmies? Well, one of the two girls who is supposed to unwrap me suddenly skates off thinking she's in the wrong place. The other one doesn't move and I think, 'Oh, swell!

I'm the comedian and I'll be tied up here until Christmas.'
Fortunately, Pat Clohessey, who is unwrapping one of the other mummles, notices how wonderful things are going.

In his second appearance, Waite eschews the aid of people or props. He works alone as the Girl Guide den mother . . . hair bun, lumpy figure, not too adorable Benny and Jackle Gleason . . . by turn haughty, piqued,

This Will Be No. 26 on the Road

When he goes into the spaghetti legs bit, or tries to bide his damp drawers from public view, you are left in grave danger of splitting a seam in your funny-bone.

Off the ice, Waite is anything but a buffoon. He is 48, articulate, plays golf, has one wife and three boys, 9, 10 and 15, and would like to do something else on Christmas Day besides skate.

"I haven't had a Christmas Day at home in 25 years," he said. Make that 26. The troupe opens in Spokane Dec.

Like others in the cast, he is less than joyful about a change in plans which brought them to Victoria. Nothing against our village.

"We were told we would have nine days off before Christmas. Most of us made plans and arrangements to be home. Then we get three days in Victoria—in the middle of the nine days OFF . . ."

He talked about comedy skating . . . the falls, the ability "to feel" if an expression or a movement tickles the ence . . . the difficulty in preparation.

"The straight skaters can practise technique every day. but not a comedian. How can you tell in an empty rink whether your idea is going to get a yuk?"

'Knowing How to Fall Is the Key'

Is comedy in skating as difficult as comedy is to write or to act out? "Every bit," Waite said. "You have to do it properly-skate, I mean—before you hoke it up.

"It sends me up the wall when a person says, 'You know, I've never skated, but I bet I could look as funny as you do when you're falling.' They don't realize that most of them wouldn't get up after the first fall.

"Knowing how to fall is the key. Once I did a routine in which I skated all out two-thirds of the ice before turning and going backwards at high speed into the boards. No pads. If I wasn't perfectly loose when I hit, there'd be no

There have been days to remember for Eric Waite. In 1938 he gave a command performance in England. "I remember meeting the Queen—the Queen Mother now—and patting two little girls on the head."

Not bad for a fellow who came out of Calgary as a hockey player, tried comedy for self-amusement and gained a royal reputation as "The Clown Prince."

Shows what you can do if you use your head. Especially for landing.

ONE OF THE GREATEST, SIR JACK HOBBS DIES

HOVE, England (Reuters)-Sir Jack Hobbs, 81, of England's greatest cricket players, died here

Hobbs, who was among the world's best opening batsmen, had been seriously ill for several weeks.

Before his death Hobbs had been in a coma.

Mrs. Vera King, Hobbs' daughter who lived with Many cricket experts feel he was the greatest player of all time. He was born Dec. 16, 1882, and learned cricket at Cambridge, where his father was a grounds caretaker.

Hobbs set a string of records-many of which

Hobbs was knighted in 1953—the first professional cricket player to receive that honor.

Hockey is a team game. That's one of the reasons why our team meets coach Sid Abel at noon before every game

Another reason is to make sure everybody's out of bed. Hockey as a strenuous game. You need a lot of sleep. However, some fellows are inclined to overdo it a little and

By getting us up and having a team meeting, he starts us thinking hockey. When you're thinking hockey and what your responsibilities and problems are, you get a little neryous and keyed up before the game. That's good.

Again, Sid runs over the routine details, such as the time of the game, when we should be at the rink. And he checks on personnel, as far as injuries are concerned.

As much as you may want to play, there's no sense in hiding or minimizing an injury if it is going to handicap your play. If you're not 100 per cent and someone could have taken your place, then you're handicapping your team, being unfair to your teammates. Sid also will tell us if he wants to make any change in the

es. And he'll talk about key individuals on other teams He wants a certain player to be on the ice every time a key man comes on. It is up to the individual on the ice playing in that position to come off and his replacement to get on.

Of course you don't make that change until the play is at the opposition's end of the ice. Naturally, if the puck is in our end, there's danger you'd be committing an error— a grave error—if you should come off and leave him totally unguarded even for seconds.

At these meetings Sid always asks us if we have any ideas. After all, we're on the ice, get the feel of things. He sees it from a different viewpoint. If you come up with an idea, he'll say "Fine, we'll try it." If not, he'll have a 'More often that not." Trimble said, "CFL clubs do not face money competition so much as the selling problem of coming to an unfamiliar country and anonymity."

NOT ALL MAKE GRADE

But Trimble says the top U.S. college player doesn't always reach expectations. "We have a history of proof that we are better off to acquire the top U.S. college players when they are humble after the fall cuts, than when they are riding high at bowl time."

The majority of players who become great stars in Canada were unknown in the U.S. because they were not all-Amer-

DR KILDARE

HOLLYWOOD—Dick Cham-berlain has changed within the ast year, say his friends, as-oclates and members of the yress. Dick agrees.

"I'm just the kind of guy that has to get off by himself every now and then. I no longer apologize for this trait. After working on a set full of cameras, visitors and reporters all day, I've got to be alone for the sake of sanity."

Regarding the Chamberlain image that has been perpeuated in the press—that of the boyish, immature 28 year-old, Dick says. "It's been a family trait to bloom late. If I'm immatute, it's in his respect, At 28, I'm first awakering to what I can do and where I am going. That's a pretty nice awakering. But I honestly do feel I've been judged a little wrongly in some articles.

why people expected an apprentice actor who hardly had his feet wet in the business to be a finished product—an exciting personality. When you come right down to it, what did I have to talk about?

"I was also naive about relating to people on a business level, Dick reflects.
This has all changed and nobody is happier about it than Dick.

Dick, "Today," he says, "I find I am anxious to meet people—to broaden my circle of friends. It have suddenly learned the importance of truly knowing people—of being able to be open with them and vice versa. It's been surprising to discover that I can enjoy people."

Regardless of private enterprise, it must be stated

The Love of God is never absent. It is revealed in all good music, in all complete repose, and in all natural sleep, whereby human faculties are restored to health for the tasks that lie ahead.

EVOLUTION

Just about all that is certain in the human record is due to the Love of God in all Creation, and above reproach as such. The exception is when old men, old cities and old nations seem to be reversing the old rule of Evolution by their retreat. The aged must be cleared away to make way for newer and nobler forms.

Regardless of private enterprise, it must be stated an educated man has a duty to perform as an American, whether he regards himself as a Canadian, a Californian, or a New Yorker. It is a duty toward the permanent installation of Good Government in the whole of Mother Earth. And more especially is this true since Franklin Roosevelt put his weight into a fight against brutal Hitlerism, by joining the English-speaking Commonwealth.

When the wanderlust strikes ...

Those of us who are going away for the holidays are doubtless there by now . . . or anyway perched on the brink of departure . . but the minute the Christmas tree comes down and the Yule decorations packed away for another year down and the Yule decorations packed away for another year "fall in love" with another man. ... thoughts of many stay-at-homes will start turning to the fascinating subject of travel . . . If and when that urge strikes If this could happen to me, it you, take our advice and talk first to the experienced travel agents at Paulin's . . . Here's one case where talk really is cheap . . in fact it costs you absolutely nothing to get the benefit of Paulin's advice and know-how . . Up- and down- Island moves...

Chatting with one of the top men at Cantin's recently, we were more than a bit surprised to learn of the frequent family moving that goes on up and down the Island.... new executives going to company jobs... others coming back to take up different posts... and the like... It was then, too, that we learned about the Lift Vans, which Cantin's have constantly shuttling about between Kelsey Bay at the end of the Trans-Canada Highway... along the coast aboard the "Island Princess" to such places as Port McNeill, Alert Bay, Sointula, Beaver Cove, Port Hardy and Port Alice... These Lift Vans are huge waterproof containers for holding furniture and household effects... They can sit out on the dock with impunity is all sorts of weather... and be packed by the householder himself to move on to a different port... Cantin's do a lot of moving up Island as well as down

"Just Before Christmas"

"Christmas with its cakes and toys and candies by the million, Was made, they say, for proper kids and not for naughty children; So wash your face and brush your hair and mind your P's and Q's And don't tear holes in dresses and don't wear out your shoes; Say 'Yes, Ma'am' to the ladies, and 'Yes, Sir' to the men, And when there's company, don't pass your plate for pie again; But thinking of the things you'd like to see upon that tree, Just before Christmas be as good as you can be."

In contrast to this faddish architecture is the courthouse in San Juan which he described as modern, but has escaped the heavy rectangular appearance by the use of a circular dome and staircase. Mr. Edwards was in Puerto Rico officially to oversee land-scaping and interior work on two Hilton hotels but he reuse in the staircase of the charming old architecture in that section of the city. It was the feeling of the government at the time that such a project should be left up to individuals.

If this is done, Mr. Edwards said, some of the buildings said, some of the buildings said, some of the buildings and interior work on two Hilton hotels but he reuse in the stair and the shinnys up a cable looped over monstrous crags and yawning gorges, depositing you at the 8,156-foot level. being billed as California's biggest tourist project since Disneyland. It is certainly as high as anyone has gotten out here since Stanley Kramer's party for "It's a Mad...etc. World." Located so close to Hollywood, it is no wonder The Thing is called "the world's largest, longest, continuous, passenger carrying tram." Officially it is the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, a circumstance that has caused circumstance that has caused the restaurant at its Valley Station to come up with "thick juicy tramburgers," not to mention "tramburgers with cheese."

Naturally, somebody has been importuned to wax lyrical about the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, admittedly a mouthful to get into a song. There was no thought of dis-missing this $8,000,000 phantasmagoria with a song. Like "Clang, Clang, Clang Went the "Clang, Clang, Clang went the Trolley," perish forbid! For this they wrote a suite. It is called The San Jacinto Suite and it includes such numbers as "Up! Up! Up! Up!", "Tell It to the Tallest Pine," Schot-tishe for Woodpeckers" and "You Can't Bossa Nova with a White woodpeckers, it should be noted, are found at the 5,000foot level. The cars, which hold 80 standees, sail over such strange flora as whipple yucca, burrow-brush, and wild apricot. There are five loops and towers and between them one can look for, first, bighorn sheep, then farther up, deer, mountain lion, foxes and bobcats. Even the mountain sheep give out after of the passengers, for as they pass each tower the cars dip and sway 1,000 feet above a granite gulch! But always the cars move on, slipping thr the cathedral walls of the gorge.

Waiting on top is a handsome fireplaces, Alpine halls with beamed ceilings, and picture window views over half the world. ## WORLD FAIR SYMBOL

Sickening, Weird Says Commons

OTTAWA (CP) - The Commons turned a glassyeved stare Friday on the "stickmen" symbol devised for the 1967 world fair in-Montreal.

It reacted with words such as "monstrosity," "weird" and "sickening," before tossing the symbol out and ordering a new one to be designed before the end of 1964

"A combination of a tractor wheel and a bunch of power poles," said Bert Leboe (SC-Cariboo). "A beatnik type of symbol," said Gerald Regan (L-Halifax). State Secretary Pickersgill said he hoped it would be a lesson to governments not to submit art to legislation. He doubted if there would be a national gallery if MPs had to decide on its contents. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was the first to take aim at the symbol during debate on a bill which, among other things, declares a copy-right on the symbol. He eventually moved an amending motion to wipe it out. 'MONSTROSITY'

He called it "a mon-strosity — an artistic monstrosity."
"It's difficult to understand—a series of angles chasing one another in chasing regular array around a Mr. Diefenbaker, with a

'GET USED TO IT'

He said it is based on the oldest primitive symbol for man-a vertical line with two diagonal lines stretching upwards to represent arms. The artist had lined pairs of these symbols-"to denote friendship and brotherhood" and arranged them in eight pairs in a circle to indicate the shape of the earth.

Mr. Deschatelets termed it "well imagined and well thought out."

He admitted the first time he saw it he had the same reaction as Mr. Diefenbaker,

"But one gets used to it:" Marcel Lambert (PC Edmonton West) and Edward Nasserden (PC -- Rosthern) both declared they saw the letters "M" and "W" in the symbol. They protested this would be taken to mean the Montreal world fair when it was in fact a Canadian world

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) got agreement on having the symbol printed in the Hansard record of Commons de-bates so readers would know

WORLD FAIR SYMBOL

Sickening, Weird' Says Commons

OTTAWA (CP) - The eyed stare Friday on the "stickmen" symbol devised for the 1967 world fair in

It reacted with words such "monstrosity," "weird" and "sickening," before tossing the symbol out and ordering a new one to be designed before the end of "A combination of a tractor wheel and a bunch of power poles," said Bert Leboe (SC-Cariboo).

"A beatnik type of symbol," said Gerald Regan (L-Halifax).

State Secretary Pickersgill said he hoped it would be a lesson to governments not to submit art to legislation. He doubted if there would be a national gallery if MPs had to decide on its contents.

Opposition Leader Diefen-aker was the first to take aim at the symbol during debate on a bill which, among other things, declares a copyright on the symbol. He eventually moved an amending motion to wipe it out.

'MONSTROSITY' He called it "a monstrosity — an artistic mon-strosity."

acteristic of Canada. I suggested insertion of maple leaf in the middleproposal supported by sev-eral other members.

It fell to Works Minister Deschatelets to defend the symbol, devised by artist Julien Hebert and already approved by the world fair board of directors.

GET USED TO IT'

He said it is based on the oldest primitive symbol for man—a vertical line with two diagonal lines stretching upwards to represent arms. The artist had lined pairs of hese symbols---"to denote friendship and brotherhood' and arranged them in eight pairs in a circle to indi-cate the shape of the earth.

Mr. Deschatelets termed it "well imagined and well thought out."

He admitted the first time he saw it, he had the same reaction as Mr. Diefenbaker.

"But one gets used to it." Marcel Lambert (PC-Edmonton West) and Edward Nasserden (PC - Rosthern) both declared they saw the letters "M" and "W" in the symbol. They protested this would be taken to mean the Montreal world fair when it

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) got agreement on having the symbol printed in the Hansard record of Commons de-bates so readers would know what was being discussed

The Senate passed the bill through its three readings in a 30-minute sitting later in the afternoon.
